We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guaranty of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

EVERY regular attaché of the PRESS is furnished with a Card certificate countersigned by Stanley T. Follen, Editor. All railway, steamboat and hotel managers will confer a favor upon us by demanding credentials of every person claiming to represent our journal.

True manhood shrinks at nothing, but runs up its sleeves and goes boldly forward to conquer the most difficult achievement. And, might further be added, man is naturally br self-confident, and proud of his strength. It is all needed, though, every bit of it, when a bachelor undertakes to kiss a baby.—Cincinnati Breakfast Table.

In love affairs wit helps everything and decides nothing. In the presence of a woman lover, a witty man thinks too much of what is going to say and not enough of what she is about to hear. Pretty talkers should remember that love is a good deal like the opera where the libretto without the music, the singers and the scenery does not count for much.—French Paper.

Letter from Kearney, which we published leaving out the objectionable words:
To the Editor of Puck:
SIR,

The following arrangements have been made with the railroads and steamboats for the round trip: One and one-fifth fare on Maine Central and its branches. One fare on Grand Trunk and branches to Danville and Yarmouth Junctions. One fare on Portland & Ogdensburg, Portland & Rochester R. R. and Bangor and Machias Steamboats.

Delegates on M. G. and G. T. R. R. will be required to return tickets. The Secretary will furnish return checks on the P. & O. and P. & R. R. R.

Per order State Committee

[And it looks like a telegram.—Ed.]—Put

The lamented X. left a charming widow and a daughter who grew up to be even more charming. She grew up with fearful rapidity too, especially from her mother's point of view. "Why, Florence, what a big girl you are getting to be! How old are you?" said one day an old friend of the family. "Fifteen and a half almost," replied the girl; "but don't let me know."

"Capital may be produced by industry and accumulated by economy, but only jugglers will propose to create it by legerdemain tricks with paper."—Thomas Jefferson.

A paper currency is a great curse to any people and a particular curse to the laborers of any country, for its depreciation always falls upon the laborer.—Andrew Jackson.

It (paper money) tends to aggravate the inequality of fortunes; to make the rich richer and the poor poorer, to multiply nabobs and paupers, and to deepen and widen the gulch which separated Dives from Lazarus.—Thomas H. Benton.

citizens." JAMES SUTCHAN.

"Such a medium (irredeemable paper money) has always been liable to fluctuation. Its value is constantly changing; and these changes, often great and sudden, expose individuals to great loss, are the source of ruinous speculations, and destroy all confidence between man and man."—Chief Justice Marshall.

they went to church together after they were married they were unable to secure seats together. This, however, did not worry him. He secured a seat for his wife, and at once sought his old quarters by the stove and among some of his old cronies. After service was over, he absent-mindedly walked out with the boys and took his old stand on the curbstone. With flashing eyes and glowing cheeks he came his wife. She would have passed him by in indignant and scornful silence had he not stepped up to her as of yore and, raising his hat, said, "Miss Lucy,—may I have the pleasure of walking with you?" He had the pleasure, and found that he was very much married when she accepted him.

gard to all interests concerned, should ever be kept in view. Fluctuations in the value of currency are always injurious, and to reduce these fluctuations to the lowest possible point will always be a laudable purpose in wise legislation. Convertibility prompt and certain convertibility into coin is acknowledged to be the best and surest safeguard against them.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN,

While girls unquestionably have their use in the economy of nature, and possess merits exclusively their own, it may be boldly asserted that they are totally unfit to pursue in company with young men the studies which constitute the curriculum of every respectable college. One of the earliest studies of the Freshman year is the art of getting the janitor's cow in the top story of the dormitory. This can be readily mastered by any young man of good abilities and habits of perseverance; but between girls and cows there is a great gulf fixed. The girl, from her earliest youth, looks upon

ent people, and the rights of those who have been oppressed, constitute an enormous debt against the States chargeable with this undivided measure which must remain unsatisfied, or rather it is an accumulation of guilt which can be expiated no otherwise than by a voluntary sacrifice on the altar of justice of the power which has been the instrument of it.—James Madison young lady in the air, in positions fatal to the proper arrangement of the back hair. To suppose that three or four young lady students are capable of the complicated pushing and pulling necessary to induce a cow to climb several flights of stairs, is to suppose that the natural feminine fear of cows can be eradicated by the mere process of matriculation. Thus we see that one of the majest of college students is quite beyond the range of the female intellect. —New York Times.

avoiding otherwise the accumulation of debt, not only by shunning occasions of expense, but by vigorous exertions in time of peace to discharge the debts which unavoidable wars may have occasioned, not ungenerously throwing upon posterity the burden which we ourselves ought to bear.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

"The very man or all others who has the deepest interest in a sound currency, and who suffers most by mischievous legislation in money matters, is the man who earns his daily bread by his daily toil. A depreciated currency, sudden changes of prices, paper money

A respondent seeking information wrote me asking several questions, and, as the information may be useful to others as well as his, I thought I might answer them. He asks: (1) What was the circulating medium in France prior to the German war, and was it issued by the Government or by the banks, and how much was in circulation? (2) Did the French Government during the German war, issue paper money, making it a legal tender? (3) What was the value of the franc prior to the war?

ling still lower between noon and night, these things constitute the very harrest time of speculators, and of the whole race of those who care at once idle and crafty. * * * A disordered currency is one of the greatest political evils. It undermines the virtues necessary for the support of the social system, and encourages propensities destructive to its happiness. It wars against industry, frugality and economy, and it fosters the evil spirits of extravagance and speculation. Of all the contrivances for cheating the laboring classes of mankind, none has been more effectual than war, in 1871, the paper circulation of the Bank of France was $251,000,000, the bank holdings a specie reserve of $229,000,000, equal to 90 cents on the dollar. There was no other bank of issue in France, and the lowest notes issued were for 5 francs. The Government had never issued no paper money then or since. (2) The Government being in great want of money authorized the Bank of France to issue its notes to a sum not exceeding 3,000,000,000 francs, or about $640,200,000, such notes to be of a legal tender, and specie payments being suspended. Of this issue the Government had authorized the bank to issue in all 1,530,000,000 or $306,000,000, the same to be repaid in several annual installments of about 225,000,000 francs each, or $44,000,000. It was provided by law, however, that as soon as the Government
